CHICAGO TRIBUNE

During 1979, the TRIBUNE printed only two pieces on the Intelligence Community in general, not CIA specifically. The first editorial, on 9 May, agreed that the Community report only to two Congressional committees, while cautioning that all covert actions be reported to the President for his approval.

The second editorial, on 24 May, said the USSR would have to agree to U-2 overflights in Turkish airspace in order for the treaty to pass the Senate.

CHICAGO SUN-TIMES

The SUN-TIMES had no pieces on either the Community or the Agency during 1979. Their last editorial, in November 1978, referred to the "ineptness" of the Agency in the Kampiles case and the Iranian situation.
